Dr. Cathy Bach, Professor of Biology, will retire in January after 18 years of service. Dr. Bach's dedication to teaching is legend in our department, a contention underscored by the comments of her students. She has mentored numerous graduate and undergraduate students in the practice of science and years later, many of these students continue to maintain contact with Dr. Bach and sing her praises.

Dr. Bach's research skills in the area of plant- insect interactions are well recognized both nationally and internationally. These talents have been recognized in various arenas. For example, she has attracted National Science Foundation research funding, served as an editor for the journal Ecology (the top journal in her field) and served as a reviewer for various other professional journals. Her fifty-seven peer-reviewed publications include multiple entries in both Ecology and Ecological Monographs, a truly outstanding feat. In recognition of her significant contributions in research, Dr. Bach was presented the Collins Distinguished Faculty/Creative Activity Award in 2003. Dr. Bach is a scientist who loves to mentor students in the art of science. Her affability, patience, quiet competence and accessibility has provided a warm, scientifically nurturing environment for the long hours she spends with student researchers on their data sets. Students and faculty have streamed to her for assistance with biostatistics, and she gives of her time and talents generously. Her enthusiasm for research is infectious and motivates students to carry their projects to fruition.

Dr. Bach's contributions to the department and University are numerous and include her efforts on the advisory board of EMU's Jean Noble Parsons Center for the Study of Art and Science and the re-vamping of Biology's advising program to provide both students and faculty with a user-friendly system. She was recognized with the Outstanding Advisor Award in 2000 and has continued her efforts in advising our students.

The Biology department requests Emeritus faculty status for Dr. Bach in recognition of her outstanding career and many contributions to EMU. We look forward to Dr. Bach's continued involvement with the EMU community as an Emeritus professor.

Re: Recommendation

Let this memo serve as my support for Dr. Paul Kuwik being awarded Emeritus Faculty Status. I have known Paul both socially and professionally for over 20 years and I have found him to be a trusted friend and colleague. He was Department Head when I began my tenure track at Eastern and he serves as a mentor and teacher.

There are many kudos I could relate about Paul, but perhaps its best to just say he deserves this honor. He has in the past and will no doubt in the future represent Eastern Michigan University in the best of possible manner.

To Whom It May Concern:

I'm writing in support of the recommendation for the Board of Regents to grant Emeritus Faculty Status to Dr. Paul Kuwik.

When Dr. Kuwik retired on August 31, 2009, serving both as a faculty member and for many years as an administrator (Department Head), he was one of the two remaining founding faculty members of the College of Technology.

During his 39 years at EMU he had many notable achievements. Perhaps the most significant was his shepherding of the creation and implementation of the Coatings and Research Institute (CRI). This was and still remains a milestone that helps distinguish the COT's Polymers and Coatings Program as one of the four such programs in the United States.

Sincerely,

Morell D. Boone, Ph.D.

RE: Dr. Margaret Moore-Hart's Nomination for Emeritus Faculty Status

Dr. Margaret Moore-Hart came to Eastern Michigan University in 1988 as a faculty member in the Department of Teacher Education. Margaret taught at EMU for 21 years in the area of Reading. Margaret received her Ph.D. from the University of South Florida.

Dr. Moore-Hart's service to EMU was outstanding. She served as the Teacher Education Department's Reading Area Graduate Coordinator (2004-2005), Reading Program Area Coordinator (2000-2009), Finance Committee Chair (2005-2008), and Personnel Committee Chair (1993-1996). Her service to the broader EMU community consisted of membership on The Honors Advisor Committee (2000-2009), Writing Across the Curriculum Committee (2000-2009), and Chairperson of the College of Education Council (1999-2001).

Dr. Moore-Hart also provided great leadership to her profession and to the local community. She played leadership roles at the Michigan Reading Association, College Reading Association, International Reading Association, and Eastern Educational Research Association.

In the area of scholarship, Margaret has been very active. She has published articles in Journals with very low acceptance rates, and her recent book: Teaching Writing in Diverse Classrooms, K-8: Shaping Writers' Development Through Literature, Real-Life Experiences, and Technology (2009) was published by Allyn & Bacon Pearson, and has received rave reviews.

Dr. Margaret Moore-Hart has distinguished herself in many ways at Eastern Michigan University and is strongly recommended for Emeritus Faculty Status.

Sincerely,

Donald H. Bennion, Head

Inter-Office Memorandum

TO: Jack Kay, Provost and Vice President for Academic Affairs

FROM: Kate Mehuron, Department Head, History and Philosophy

SUBJECT: Emeritus Status Recommendation for Prof. Walter Moss

DATE: November 17, 2009

Enclosed herewith you will find an Emeritus Status Recommendation form requesting that Prof. Walter Moss be awarded Emeritus status. Professor Moss will retire from teaching effective January 5, 2010. He has served the department four decades as a model teacher, a productive scholar, and an industriously helpful colleague. His departure from active teaching is a loss that the History section will feel for some time to come.

I myself have served for twenty years in the department as a colleague of Professor Moss, and have found him a good colleague, committed teacher, and superb scholar. I urge you to confer on Professor Moss the title Emeritus and all of the rights and privileges to which he is entitled.

Dear Kate,

This letter is to give you official notification that I will retire from Eastern Michigan University on January 5, 2010. According to the AAUP Contract (Article XX, B1): "Upon request, a retiring Faculty Member shall be provided a review and other considerations of retirement benefits (e.g., library, parking, Rec M, etc.) through EMU's Benefits Office." I had a conversation earlier in 2009 with the head of the Benefits Office, Jeanette Hassan, but I will contact her again in the next few weeks for a final review before I retire. Thanks for all your help.

RE: Letter of support for Professor Donald Pearson, Emeritus Faculty Status

I am honored to be able to write a letter of support in favor of Dr. Donald Pearson, who is soon to retire from the Economics Department here at EMU and is seeking Emeritus Status.

Dr. Pearson has been a faculty member at EMU for forty one years, and during that time has made immense contributions to both the Economics Department and the University. He was for many years head of the Labor Studies Program in the department, and in that capacity brought students and funding that were very much appreciated. His background in Labor Economics from his studies at the University of Texas at Austin underpinned substantially his work here, and he represented a school of thought about economics that made a valuable contribution to the department. His encyclopedic knowledge of and tireless energy for labor issues including unionization, the role of minority workers, arbitration, and mediation made his courses and research in these areas invaluable.

He has been an active and effective member of the larger EMU community as well. Ever a voice for sanity and reasoned interactions he has been an active spokesperson for the faculty and others. His knowledge of how EMU works has been a valuable resource to the department. He has been essentially the go-to person for figuring out what is going on and what to do about it. In recent years he has served with distinction as the director of the undergraduate program in the department, and brought order and progressive improvement to that area.

Dr. Pearson has contributed greatly to the Economics Department, to Eastern Michigan University, and through those to the larger community in his 41 years of service. I am happy to be able to recommend him for Emeritus Faculty Status. He is highly deserving of this honor.

Emeritus Faculty Status-Prof. J.R. Smith

Since joining the EMU Department of Music and Dance in 1969, multi-talented Prof. J. R. Smith has primarily taught studio tuba, euphonium and trombone Music 100 – music theory for non-majors – as well as a collection of other courses for music majors. He has soloed on trombone and tuba with all the major student instrumental ensembles and performed with faculty-student groups on double bass and voice.

Exhibiting outstanding civic engagement, Prof. Smith has played with the unique Dodworth Saxhorn Band, including twice at the White House, producing numerous recordings with the group. As a vocalist, he has appeared with the Ann Arbor Choral Union for a decade, as well as in Barbershop for 20 years with the select Great Lakes Chorus in Grand Rapids.

Playing bass and trombone, Prof. Smith worked for 40 years as a gigging musician doing studio work and anchoring the bass section in local big bands such as Ypsilanti's Ambassadors.

In short, Prof. Smith proves himself an all-around musician and caring professor, who made undergraduate advising a priority for 20 years.

Prof. Smith quips, "I'll miss all of you, but I won't say good-bye"!
